

B. C. S. Bulletin To Old Boys

VOL. XXIII - No. 3

COMPILER: J. GRAHAM PATRIQUIN, B.A

APRIL 1964

MAIL

The Association's appeal for up-to-date addresses brought in a good quantity of them. To answer certain inquiries, it will be noted that the Association must have an address more accurate than one from the last phone book; vital statistics alter more frequently than the Bell volume goes to press. Fresh items on the whereabouts of Old Boys are always welcomed, both by the O.B.A. and your compiler, who did not make the appeal, but who enjoyed, nevertheless, the news of Old Boys which many letters contained.

Good people who wrote in were Old Boys from England, the United States (including some American Universities) and most provinces of Canada. A former Headmaster, C. G. M. Grier, sent in several lists.

Of special interest were letters from senior Old Boys, Harry T. Heneker (1900-05), whose father and two uncles were Old Boys, told us more about the Cup commemorating the trio of Henekers, and showed a keen interest in Junior Cross Country running. From Marcellus, N.Y., came a letter from John M. Moir, 1890-94, a former Prefect who presented the school, a few years ago, some group photos of teams and of an Old Boys' reunion which are on view in the Administration wing.

HOCKEY

For those who were at the L.C.C. rink on February 22nd, this will merely remind them of an experience that had to be lived to be understood. Words can only recreate the situation: a powerful, experienced and very successful home team on an ice surface to its liking, a much lighter B.C.S. squad, nine of whom were rookie first teamers, and the A.O.B.A. Trophy up for takes. We had a two-goal edge on scoring, having beaten Ashbury 4-2 while the Lower-cans had shut them out with a single goal, and therefore a draw would send the shapely cup back to the Dining Hall for its 18th and one-third time, as against L.C.S.'s 9 1/3 possessions and Ashbury's 4 years and 4 months.

From the outset, a fighting B.C.S. team forechecked the homesters against their backboards, and skymied every effort to launch a patterned attack from the L.C.C. zone. B.C.S. took its bumps, got up, and kept boring in. Nobody scored. L.C.C. fed many long passes to the red line, but the solitary floater there was smothered every time by two or three Bishop's defenders, and Dyer turned off the shots to perfection. We missed on three good chances; the home team had two dangerously close ones.

The noise of the last period might have been that of the Memorial Rink as a busload of senior boys and the Montreal supporters roared their approval, and, when the final whistle sounded, Captain Darrell Abbott was only a stride ahead of a cheering crowd which poured onto the ice toward the goalie in appreciation of a masterful shutout.

Your heads may well be high about your School's Hockey Team in 1964.

OLD BOYS' HOCKEY

Trial resumption of two Old Boys' games in a season, this year, lengthened rather than interrupted the string of school victories over the Saturday night re-visitors, and if any points were proved, they were that "a) the School team is still pretty capable (the L.C.C. game demonstrated that, also), and that "b) hockey is a game wherein an absolute essential is prime condition, in-the-grooveness, comme l'habitude " or what you will.

Eric Molson's strong team of January 18 included ten ex-first teamers, two ex-Captains and one of the hottest scoring lines in a generation. Four unanswered goals in the opening period, a standoff, one-goal effort in the middle twenty minutes, and a 3-2 edge in the final gave the school an 8-3 victory in a very good game. There was a lot of good hockey and near-minimum of penalties; the one minor, for hooking, was not picked up by the Old Boys.

For your observer, one of the most enjoyable parts of the night was a logical, fair-minded analysis of the Old Boys' Game phenomenon by some of the sharpest historians it has been our pleasure to send up for matriculation.

Peters Ashworth and Hutchins, with a somewhat younger group, hooked up in the second game, February 1st. 'Twas the night after the Compton Dance, and the solid homecoming game by Vic Mills kept the score down to single figures, but there was never any doubt as to the outcome. Old Boys evened School's goal-production in the final stage of the game, which indicated that a dance-break in the training regime had dulled the edge. Once again, it was a clean game, with dishonours evenly divided " one minor apiece. Final score, 7-3.

THEN AND NOW

On the Boards

THEN, in the late 30's and early 40's, it was nothing to run cross-country to the 'Flying Kilometre', ski down and climb up for an hour, and run back to school for afternoon classes. There was no other way to get to the skiing. (There was ONE other way. Coming back from the 'Kilo' one day we saw a pretty piece of ski-joring. As a Q.C.R. freight laboured up round the Moulton Hill curve a boy had grasped a handhold on a box car, about midway between engine and caboose, and was hurtling along beside the train in a welter of snow. Shocked, we reported him to the Head, whose reaction seemed mainly a desire to try it himself.)

NOW, no one knows of the 'Kilo', and the Practice Hill beyond the school woods is the limit of skiing in that direction. Even there it is no longer a case of ski down and climb up, for this winner, through the generosity of certain parents, an electrically driven rope tow has been installed. The weather, however, was less efficient than the tow, and we shall have to wait till next winter to see what effect this has upon our skiing. To the 'non-competitive' skiers, meanwhile, it has been a boon.

If the iron men of the climbing and cross-country days are inclined to accuse the present generation of being soft and lazy, they should think twice. Blame rather the equipment. THEN you used the same skis, poles, and boots for every purpose, running foot-free to the hill, then snapping on your Super-Diagonals, and letting gravity take its course. NOW we cannot run a foot in those great rigid boots lashed to the downhill ski, and who wants to go downhill in cross-country gear? Cross-country is still an event, but it is no longer in the natural course of events. And as for downhill and slalom NOW, off the skiers go on half-holidays and Sunday afternoons to Hillcrest, Orford, Glen Mountain - at least if the old equipment has been replaced, so has the 'Flying Kilometre'.

And on Other Boards

NOW the Players' Club has just performed 'Henry IV, Part I' once again. It was a colourful, virile, and very satisfactory production, and one could not help but wish that the cast of the '47 production had been there to see it. NOW the performance was more finished, with far more effective scenery, lighting, music, sound effects, and background action. THEN, though, we were finding our way, and we have not forgotten John Turpin as Horspur. He knew one speech perfectly, the rest more or less: when stuck he was inclined to retreat to the safe ground of, 'My Liege, I did deny no prisoners.. .' He drove Norman Solomon, playing Prince Hal, frantic by refusing to stay dead; his upstage hand, out of sight of the audience, continued to act long after rigor mortis should have set in. Solomon, incidentally, found he could ad lib in blank verse, a useful talent for the Shakesperian actor. And, refurbishing the Douglas's shield for the recent production, we caught up with John Ross seventeen years late - on the back of the shield was pencilled his one big speech, 'Arm, gentlemen, to arms.. ..'

NOW, this time, we had a professional actor, an Old Boy who had starred in three plays just after the first Henry IV, come backstage and tell the cast how they had done and make some constructive suggestions for future acting and staging. This was Howard Ryshpan, THEN of B.C.S.'s The Tempest, You Can't Take It With You and See How They Run, NOW of C.B.C. TV and Radio, La Poudrière, and points up the ladder. Howard is one of four theatrical figures to whom the Players' Club points with pride - David Atkinson of the New York stage, musical comedy, and TV; Paul Almond, top C.B.C. producer, at the moment directing for Granada TV in England; George Sperdakos, currently under contract to Halifax's Neptune Theatre. And, oh, yes - guess who's a film producer NOW.. .. John Arm-gentlemen-10-am Rass.

CHOIR ECHOES

A long-time resident could easily recognize the influence of several dedicated musicians at B.C.S. in the appreciative response by the School to the University Alumni Singers, who gave a memorable concert here on Saturday, March 7th.

The Singers' president, and one of the founders of the group was Bill Sharp (1949-55), whose gut-bucket and rollicking baritone were a big part of the show. (He speaks well, too!). John (1947-55) Trott's solid tenor has acquired body and authority, as has Tommy Rogers (1950-54), who seemed pretty happy to be back at his old Choir-school.

Mr. Pratt (John S., 1948-54) put his choir alongside the more senior singers for several numbers, and the effect was -- wow! For good measure, he soloed in Slavonic tongue a non-political piece called GASPODI VA POMOC MOJUL!

Director of the Singers this year is Don Patriquin (1946-56), fourth year student at the McGill Conservatory of Music, and School organist, 1954-56. He brought Sara Hayden, contralto, Rose-Marie Barbeau, soprano, Rutharden LeBlanc, pianist, and William Walker, trumpeter, to reinforce the amateurs. The four young professionals were uniformly high in their praises of the school choir, and of the musical intelligence shown by the body of the School. As for the Alumni Singers - they'll be happy to come back again at any time. Moreover, we shall be glad to see - and hear them.

RAISE SIGHTS!

Possibly the last item chronologically for this editorial of the Bulletin is the flash from the P.Q.R.A. Shoulder-to-Shoulder Tournament, held at the Hussars' Armoury, April 5th. Your Cadet Corps scored a repeat performance and came back with the Major John H. Molson Shield for the second consecutive year.

No. 2 Cadet Corps outpointed its nearest rival, which happened to be Lower Canada College, by 773 [a 769 out of 800 possible in the Team Match. More than thirty Cadet Corps fired in the day-long tournament, the largest cadet rifle meet that is held in Canada, according to Major General F. J. Fleury, who presented prizes at the close of the day's shooting. Cdr. S/Sgt. C. Green captained the team, which included Cdt. Lt. K. Dyer, Cdr. Sgt. M. Abajian, and Cdr. Corporals J. Brunton and R. McLeod.

SALLITE TO SPRING

Here is your calendar of School events, as far as they are fixed at press time, many of which you will be able to enjoy in Lennoxville or wherever the paths of duty and/or pleasure lead a representative group of B.C.S. boys.

Spring is the ideal time to slip into the Townships and see the School in action; there is, at this season, a topical and entirely natural airing of a boy's inner being that takes place without ostentation or self-consciousness, and which manifests itself in a bewildering variety of behaviour. For those who know the symptoms, the spiritual release of springtime can be seen in the hurtling abandon of the hundred yard dash, the resilience of leg muscles at the jumping pits, the thud of a falling, far-flung discus or shot, the thwack of oiled willow on tight-stitched leather that accompanies a boundary six, and, just as certainly, in the inevitable combination of smoked glasses, blanket and book.. ..

On these Appalachian foothills, spring mornings are jewelled with crystal solitaires, each iridescent aquastone swaying on its grass-blade stickpin. In the relative silence of early morning, sounds have profound significance. Absolute quiet is unknown as the nature-and-boy-made symphony brings to the sympathetic ear the setting and the actors of a maturinal drama. So.. .. stand quietly or sit amongst the pines that flank First Crease and hear the muted background music of small birds and tinier insects; soon you may hear a rhythmic thump, thump of percussion that mounts in volume as pounds into view a hard-breathing miler or middle-distance boy, serious of face and lean of limb, splashing droplets over the grass in explosive showers with each footfall that brings him, in his hopes, nearer to a cup, a championship, or perchance a record to leave behind him as his mark of achievement.

In the spring, each youthful veteran of the field, rink and classroom, looking back upon what he uneasily suspects were his formative years, experiences the first pains of approaching maturity, and would clutch to himself and re-live all the good moments he has known, forgetting, meanwhile, the bumps and abrasions which have also played their part in his growing up.

All terms at School are buy, but the final term is filled to overflowing, and 'tis well that the sun rises early, so many are the demands upon waking time. Conscience and school curriculum call without respite: shining brass, polished leather, lint-free serge: catch-up class, finished essay, the dry-run test exam; starting-blocks, heat lamp and the pageantry of the Track Meet; the bounce and the bump of tennis and cricket balls, Chairman's Match, the Hitchman Shield; choir practice, robing, processional and Choir Trip; School exams, track and field preliminaries. twilight Evensong in Chapel, Closing Sports Day and Matrics. There really hasn't been enough time; so much has been left undone - but summer has come, spring has gone, and the Sixth Former is, finally, an Old Boy.

ANNUAL GIVING CAMPAIGN

The campaign is now entering its third month of operation and we are happy to report a favourable response to our appeal for increased giving to the Old Boys' Association so that we will be better able to help the School in some of their much needed and worthwhile projects. You will note from the figures given below that 164 Old Boys have contributed $2,911.00 since the campaign started in February of this year. This represents a response from only 14% of the total number of Old Boys on our present mailing list, but it does show an increase in giving of $1,655.00 over the total response to Annual Dues and Life Membership for the whole year 1962-63. This part is heartening but we cannot expect the campaign to be considered a success unless we achieve at least a 70% Old Boy participation.

We send our heartiest thanks to all those who have contributed and to those who have not we earnestly urge you to include B.C.S. among the many worthwhile appeals to which you undoubtedly respond.
